BLACKSBURG, VA., December 21.—

The institute and town have both been suffering this week from the rush and confusion that seem an essential part of the modern Christmas. The cadets have been leaving by every train since Monday, the greater part of them, however, going Thursday, several special trains being run to accommodate the crowd. A number of the faculty leave the end of the week and the campus will present a deserted appearance for the next and days. The president has informed the parents of every student that the latter will be required to report for duty of January 2d, when classes will be resumed. Christmas week in the town promises to be very quiet. A number of the boxes and select of the town and the present of the town and the present of the town are the promises to be very quiet. A number
